HEART OF WINTER

Heart of Winter is an expansion pack to Icewind Dale, and allows your characters to continue their adventures in the snow-swept north of the Forgotten Realms campaign setting. Using Bioware's Infinity engine and the Advanced Dungeons & Dragons rules, Black Isle Studios has expanded the northern reaches of Icewind Dale, providing a whole host of new challenges for your characters, along with new spells, items, and enemies.

Although Heart of Winter is an expansion pack, be warned: The dangers you face are greater than the ones in Icewind Dale, and the threat to the whole of the Forgotten Realms is even greater. So prepare yourselves... the North is in need of heroes once again.

HOW TO USE THIS MANUAL

This manual is intended to supplement the Icewind Dale manual and details only the new mechanics, spells, and interface options introduced in the expansion.

The experience point tables and spell progression charts provided at the end of this manual, however, are meant to replace the ones in the Icewind Dale manual. These revised tables reflect the new level limits, spell gains per level, and other tables affected by the higher experience point cap for the player characters in Heart of Winter.

ABOUT HEART OF WINTER

Heart of Winter is an expansion for the game Icewind Dale. You must own Icewind Dale and have it installed on your PC in order to play Heart of Winter.

Heart of Winter can be played either while playing Icewind Dale or after you have finished Icewind Dale. If you have not completed the original game of Icewind Dale, the new adventure areas will become available to you through Hjollder, a barbarian shaman that will appear in one of the houses in Kuldahar when the expansion is installed. (The house in Kuldahar where Hjollder appears was locked in the original game with no way to open it - it will be automatically unlocked once the expansion is installed.)

Note that your characters must be 9th level in order to travel to the areas of the expansion pack via Hjollder (in the case of multi-class characters, the 9th level cap equals the sum of their levels, so a 5th-level fighter/4th-level mage could also travel to the expansion).

If you have already completed the original game (or don't wish to complete the original game and simply want to start playing the expansion instead) there will be an option on the main menu under 'Create Game' that will allow you to start the expansion. Select 'Create Game,' then select

Hjollder's House

'Expansion Only.' When you do, you will be offered the choice of creating brand new characters or using the characters you played in the original game (if you completed the original game, the game will have automatically stored the states of your characters after the final battle, minus all conditions such as death, poison, and so on).

Whichever option you chose, you will start adventuring in the town of Lonelywood. From Lonelywood, you can access the other adventure locations in the Heart of Winter. Once you start the expansion in 'Expansion Only' mode, however, you cannot return to the original areas in Icewind Dale.

Note that the 9th level restriction mentioned above for Hjollder does not apply to starting an expansion game through the main menu, although it is strongly recommended that your party members be at least 9th level in order to have a chance of surviving the dangers found within Heart of Winter.

Pre-generated characters have been provided that are suitable to start the expansion with. During Character Creation, they can be imported via the 'Import' button. These new characters have been prefixed with a '+.'

GETTING STARTED

To play Heart of Winter, you must have Icewind Dale installed. If you don't have Icewind Dale installed, you must re-install your copy of the game. Refer to the Icewind Dale manual for installation instructions.

With Icewind Dale installed, insert the Heart of Winter CD into your CD-ROM drive and follow the onscreen instructions. If your Autorun is not enabled, click on the icon representing your CD-ROM drive under 'My Computer.' This will bring up a listing of the files on the Heart of Winter disc. Find AUTORUN.EXE and double click to start the launch application.

There are several options available on the Autorun menu:

Install: This option is available if you have not yet installed Heart of Winter. Click on this to begin the Heart of Winter installation procedure.

Play: After you have installed the game, click on the 'Play' button to begin playing. This will take you to the Heart of Winter Main Menu Screen, where you may create a brand new game or load a previously saved game.

Configure: The hotkeys and some other settings used while playing Icewind Dale and Heart of Winter can be modified using this utility.

View Readme: The Readme file contains last minute information and changes that could not be printed in this manual. Please take the time to view the Readme file if you are having any problems with Heart of Winter.

Uninstall: When you're ready, the Uninstall option will uninstall both the expansion and original game except your saved games and game cache.

Exit: This will close the launch window.

4 To start playing again later, select the Icewind Dale application from the Black Isle Studios program group in your Start Menu.

PLAYING HEART OF WINTER

After you have installed Heart of Winter on your system, the new areas, quests, and items are merged into the existing world of Icewind Dale on your PC.

When you select Create Game, you will be presented with a new screen which allows you to either start a new Icewind Dale game or start an expansion game. Players who wish to play the entire game, including the expansion, should press the 'Full Game' button, and for those who have beaten the game or wish to start a new game in just the expansion areas, press the 'Expansion Only' button. Press 'Done' when you are ready to continue.

There are several different scenarios in which you can start to play the game:

1. You are starting a new game with Heart of Winter installed.
2. You have a save somewhere in the middle of a game of Icewind Dale that you are playing.
3. You have beaten Icewind Dale and want to start an expansion game.
4. You simply want to start playing the expansion and have not played Icewind Dale.

Starting a New Game.

If you are starting a new game, there is no difference between a new Heart of Winter game and a new Icewind Dale game. Simply select 'Create Game' and then 'Full Game' from the menu, and you'll start the game at the beginning of Icewind Dale. Refer to the sections on character creation, classes, races, and so on in the Icewind Dale manual. Starting a full game of Icewind Dale with the expansion installed will give you access to all the new spells and items present in Heart of Winter, and it will allow you to access all the new areas in the expansion pack.

Continuing an In-Progress Save.

After you have installed the expansion, load up your save game just as you did while you were playing Icewind Dale. The new areas of Heart of Winter are added into the world through Hjollder's house in Kuldahar (see About Heart of Winter, p. 2), and all new items and spells from the expansion will appear in the game world as well.

You Have Beaten Icewind Dale and Wish to Start an Expansion Game.

If you have beaten the original game, Icewind Dale saves the states of your characters after the final battle and allows these characters to be imported into the expansion. (Any characters that died in the final battle will be restored to life, so if any of your characters didn't make it, don't worry about having to fight the final battle over again until you get it right.) To do this, simply select 'Create Game' from the main menu, choose 'Expansion Only,' then select the option to import characters into the expansion (you can also begin the expansion with brand new characters, if you wish). Your party will start in the town of Lonelywood.

Starting From Expansion.

You may wish to start playing the expansion whether you have played the original game or not. Simply select 'Create Game' from the start menu, then 'Expansion Only' and create your characters. If you're importing characters, it is suggested that they be at least 9th level in order to survive in the expansion. Still, you are welcome to play the expansion at a lower level if you're feeling especially brave.

HEART OF WINTER FEATURES

The majority of the Icewind Dale interface and game mechanics will not change when Heart of Winter is installed. However, there have been a few minor modifications to how things work in the game. A quick summary of these new features is as follows:

Heart of Winter contains:

- New Portraits
- New Player Character Sound Sets
- New Experience Point Cap for All Character Classes, Allowing Them to Reach 30th Level
- New "Heart of Fury" Mode that Increases Monster Difficulty and Experience Awards
- Higher Resolution (800 x 600)
- Drop Away Interface
- Gem Bags, Potion Bags, and Scroll Cases
- New Priest, Druid, and Wizard Spells
- Hot Key That Highlights Normal Doors and Ground Items
- Ability to Buy Multiple Items from Stores
- New Special Abilities for Paladins, Rangers, Thieves, Bards, and Druids
- Many other interface enhancements found in Baldur's Gate™ II: Shadows of Amn.

CHARACTER GENERATION

PORTRAITS, SOUNDS

Heart of Winter includes a number of new character portraits and sounds for your characters. These can all be chosen by selecting the 'Customize' button on the Character Record Screen.

IMPORT

How To Import Characters into the Expansion

Although you can travel to the expansion pack during the course of Icewind Dale by meeting Hjollder in Kuldahar, you may have already completed Icewind Dale and wish to continue on with the expansion. To do this, all you need to do is select 'Create Game' from the main menu, select 'Expansion Only,' and import your characters from the original game. The game will have saved versions of your characters after the final battle in Icewind Dale (restoring those who have died to life) in the Characters folder. These characters are labeled 'TWD1-6,' where the number corresponds to each party member present in the Icewind Dale final battle.

Note that your characters should be 9th level before going to the expansion pack (in the case of multi-class characters, the 9th level cap equals the sum of their levels, so a 5th-level fighter/4th-level mage could also travel to the expansion).

You may not transfer characters from Baldur's Gate I, Tales of the Sword Coast, Planescape: Torment, or Baldur's Gate II: Shadows of Amn into Icewind Dale or Heart of Winter.

THE INTERFACE

This section describes all the new interface functionality present in Heart of Winter.

THE MAIN INTERFACE

Greater Screen Resolution

The Heart of Winter supports a greater screen resolution than Icewind Dale, allowing you to play at 800 x 600 resolution. To change the resolution, you must modify it in the Config program. The Config program can be reached either by the shortcut in the Start Menu, or via the Autorun menu when the expansion has been installed. Note that even though Heart of Winter officially only supports 800 x 600 resolution, you may run the game at 1024 x 768, 1280 x 960, 1600 x 1200, or 2048 x 1536 resolution.

Drop Away Interface

Certain hot keys will allow you to drop away interface panels on the main screen. By default, pressing the Y key will make the left side panel on the main screen drop away, the U key will do the same thing to the right panel, and pressing the H key will make the entire interface drop away. Pressing any of the keys a second time will bring up the panels again. Note that pausing the game while the interface is hidden will bring up the interface. Unpausing the game will hide the interface again if it was hidden before the pause.

INVENTORY SCREEN

Gem Bags, Potion Bags, and Scroll Cases

The Heart of Winter contains several items that can “store” other items of a similar type. Gem bags, for example, can hold a number of gems inside without cluttering up your inventory, while potion bags and scroll cases can do the same for potions and scrolls, respectively.

To use these bags and cases, simply right-click on the item. Now press the button ‘Open Container’ to move to the next screen. From this screen you can move your gems, potions, or scrolls from the right hand column to the left hand column. This will move these items into your gem bag or scroll case. You can also drag a gem or scroll to the appropriate container and release the L-Mouse button over top of it to deposit it in the bag/case.

STORE SCREEN

Buy and Sell Screen

There have been some changes to the buying and selling screen in Heart of Winter. The screen now shows how many items the proprietor has in stock of each item (unlimited items have no number beside them), and functionality has also been added that allows you to buy multiple versions of each item.

To buy multiple versions of an item, double-click on the item in the store, which will bring up a menu that allows you to select how many of that item you would like to buy. Enter the number, and if you have enough gold, they're yours.

OPTIONS SCREEN

Auto-Pause Options

Under the Auto-pause features, there are two new Auto-pause options: 'When Enemy Sighted' and 'When Spell Cast.' When 'Enemy Sighted' is selected, the game will automatically pause as soon as an enemy enters visual range of one of your party members. When 'Spell Cast' is selected, the game will automatically pause as soon as an enemy begins to cast a spell.

Center on Party Member

This toggle allows the autopause settings to center on the party member that caused the autopause trigger. For example, if the game is set to Autopause When Enemy Sighted, then 'Center on Party Member' will center the game screen on the character that saw the enemy.

EXPERIENCE AND GAINING LEVELS

New Experience Point Cap

Heart of Winter raises the experience point cap for all player characters, allowing them to reach 30th level (although accumulating enough experience points for this to happen can take a very long time, and may not occur if you're playing the game straight through). For details on the hit point bonuses, spell level progression, and other information, see the revised experience and spell progression tables at the end of the manual. Note that druids have a brand new experience point table that allows them to reach higher levels.

Heart of Fury Mode

If you are playing Icewind Dale and Heart of Winter straight through, you are unlikely to accumulate enough experience points to reach 30th level. Heart of Fury Mode, however, is a special option available in the Config screen that allows you to greatly enhance the strength of creatures in the game (and give you more experience points). In Heart of Fury mode, it is possible for characters to gain enough experience to progress all the way up to 30th level. This mode can only be turned on via the Config utility, which can be ran via the 'Icewind Dale Configuration' shortcut in your Start Menu, or via the Autorun program.

SPECIAL ABILITIES

A number of character classes have been improved in Heart of Winter, and many of them have gained new special abilities. Please note, the following special abilities were inspired by those found in the new Dungeons &

Dragons rule system by Wizards of the Coast. These special abilities were interpreted and modified to fit within the Icewind Dale series of games, and are not officially documented within the 2nd Edition Advanced Dungeons & Dragons rules. A summary of these abilities is as follows:

PALADINS

Smite Evil. Paladins now have the ability to call down a column of holy light once per day. This column of holy light does $1d6 + 1d6$ points of damage for every 3 levels of the paladin. The paladin can select this power from his special abilities bar (accessed through the star button on the bottom right of the main screen).

Divine Courage. At 3rd level, paladins gain an immunity to fear.

Earlier Spell Access. Paladins now have access to spells at an earlier level. See the Paladin Spell Progression Table at the end of this manual.

Immunity to Disease. Paladins are now completely immune to all forms of disease, magical or mundane.

RANGERS

Earlier Spell Access. Rangers now have access to spells at an earlier level. See the Ranger Spell Progression Table at the end of this manual.

Tracking. Rangers have a new special ability, tracking, which can be selected from the special abilities bar (accessed through the star button on the bottom right of the main screen). When used, the ranger can attempt to look for tracks and gain information on what type of creatures, if any, have passed through the area. Potential information that can be gained from tracking includes the number of creatures, the direction they were traveling in, and how long ago the tracks were made. This ability works on any map in Icewind Dale and Heart of Winter, and it can provide important clues to what creatures lurk in the area. The skill's success is based on the ranger's level (+5% for every three levels) and his wisdom (+5% per point of wisdom), and it can only be used once per day.

DRUIDS

New Experience Table. Druids have a new experience table that allows them to advance past 14th level. See the end of this manual for details.

Druidic Shape Change. This power is now available at 5th level, and the druid now gains a new form they can shape change into every other level thereafter, to 15th level. In addition, druids will heal some of their wounds when they shift to their animal form.

Elemental Form. Once druids reach 11th level, they gain the ability to transform themselves into a fire elemental, with all the advantages, resistances, and immunities that a fire elemental possesses. The druid gains the ability to transform into new elemental forms at higher levels: an earth elemental at 13th level and a water elemental 15th level.

Immunity to Poison. At 9th level, druids become immune to poison, both mundane and magical.

Timeless Body. At 15th level, druids no longer accrue fatigue through magical or mundane means. They need sleep only to refresh their spells; otherwise, they can stay active for weeks on end with no penalties. Note this immunity to fatigue also applies to spells that normally cause fatigue (such as Haste or Righteous Wrath of the Faithful).

THIEVES

Sneak Attack. Sneak Attack is an optional ability that can replace a thief's Backstab ability; if you wish your thieves to use Sneak Attack instead of Backstab while playing the game, the option can be switched in the Config program. When Sneak Attack is in effect, any time a thief attacks an opponent from a flank or rear position, he or she can do additional damage once (and only once) on that opponent. The additional damage is plus +1d6 every 4 levels of experience (i.e., an 8th level thief could do +3d6 damage, and a 23rd level thief could do +6d6). A Sneak Attack does not require the thief to be hidden or moving silently in order to work (although these skills can help a thief to get into position). Critical hits do not double Sneak Attack damage.

Evasion. At 7th level, thieves gain the power to evade effects that would normally hurt other characters. Whenever a thief is hit by a spell that can be evaded (Fireball, Lightning Bolt, etc.), the thief is allowed a saving throw vs. breath to completely avoid the effects of the spell. If the saving throw is failed, then the spell works normally, including a save for half-damage if the spell allows for it. Evasion improves as the thief goes up in level, giving him bonuses to the saving throw vs. breath (for Evasion purposes only). Keep in mind that thieves cannot evade their own effects, so mage/thieves should think twice before throwing a fireball at their feet.

Crippling Strike. At 5th level, thieves gain a feel for how to hamstring their enemies in unpleasant ways. This allows thieves to cripple an opponent with a successful Sneak Attack, reducing their chances to hit and damage. This crippling effect is in addition to the normal Sneak Attack damage. A Crippling Strike improves with the thief's level. At 5th level, a thief's Crippling Strike causes the victim to suffer a -1 to hit and damage rolls, at 9th level, -2 to hit and damage, at 13th level, -3 to hit and damage, and so on, with an additional -1 penalty to hit and damage for every four levels of the thief. A creature hit with a Crippling Strike will regain their normal to hit and damage rolls one turn after being crippled.

BARDS

Bards have a number of new songs in addition to their starting song (The Ballad of the Three Heroes). Unless otherwise noted, all bard songs have a radius of 30 feet.

The Ballad of Three Heroes. Bards start the game with the ability to play this ballad. When the Ballad of Three Heroes is played, all the bard's allies gain +1 to hit, +1 damage, and +1 saving throws.

The Tale of Curran Strongheart. Bards gain this song at 3rd level. When the Tale of Curran Strongheart is being played, any fear effect on the bard's allies are removed, and they gain an immunity to fear effects for as long as the song lasts.

Tymora's Melody. Bards gain this song at 5th level. When played, Tymora's Melody gives the bard's allies +1 luck, +3 saving throws, and +10% to their lore skill and thief skills.

The Song of Kaudies. Bards gain this song at 7th level. When the Song of Kaudies is played, the bard's allies have a 50% chance to shrug off the effects of spells such as Silence, Shout, Great Shout, Command, or any other sound-based attack.

The Siren's Yearning. Bards gain the Siren's Yearning at 9th level. When played, the bard's enemies must save vs. spell or be enthralled, unable to take action until 1 turn passes or they take damage.

War Chant of Sith. The War Chant of Sith becomes available to bards when they reach 11th level. When played, the bard's allies gain -2 bonus to AC, +10% Resistance to slashing, piercing, crushing, and missile attacks, and the ability to regenerate 2 hit points every round.

NEW GAME FEATURES

Store Inventories: The selection in two of the Icewind Dale stores (Orrick's Tower and Conlan's Smithy in Kuldahar) will change once the expansion is installed, allowing you to purchase new items. The original items in the stores will not vanish, only new items will be added.

Hot Key for Spotting Doors and Ground Items: Heart of Winter also provides a hot key (ALT) that illuminates all doors and any items on the ground. When the ALT key is held down, all doors and ground items will be highlighted in blue, similar to the way containers are highlighted. This key will not illuminate secret doors, triggers, or traps.

SPELLS

The beginning of this section details some of the changes to the spells in the Icewind Dale game (these updates are in place whether you have installed Heart of Winter or not), and the second part of this section details all the new spells in Heart of Winter.

HEART OF WINTER CHANGES TO ICEWIND DALE SPELLS

Some spells in Icewind Dale will gain change once the Heart of Winter expansion is installed. Some of the original Icewind Dale spells now have alignment conditions, and the opposition schools for wizard classes have also changed (see Table 4, p. 38).

Alignment

A few of the Icewind Dale spells will gain alignment conditions when Heart of Winter expansion is installed. This means your character must either be (or not be) a certain alignment in order to cast the spell. For example, a spell that can only be cast by a “good” character could be cast by a Lawful Good, Neutral Good or Chaotic Good character, but not by a character of any other alignment.

The spells that have changed are as follows:

Raise Dead: Only non-evil characters can cast this spell.

Resurrection: Only good characters can cast this spell.

Heal: Only good characters can cast this spell.

Cure Critical Wounds: Only non-evil characters can cast this spell.

For more information on Alignment, refer to Alignments in the Icewind Dale Manual, p.68.

Opposition Schools

The wizard opposition schools will change once the Heart of Winter is installed (see Table 4, p. 38). Note that specialist wizards who have already inscribed spells into their spell book from an opposition school while playing the original game of Icewind Dale will not lose those spells. The restriction only applies to spells the specialist wizard attempts to inscribe in their spell book after the expansion is installed.

NEW SPELLS

Druids, clerics, and wizards have a selection of new spells available to them in the Heart of Winter. Details of each spell are provided later on. Some new spells found in Heart of Winter were inspired by those found in the new Dungeons & Dragons rule system by Wizards of the Coast. These spells were interpreted and modified to fit within the Icewind Dale series of games, and are not officially documented within the 2nd Edition Advanced Dungeons & Dragons rules.

NEW WIZARD SPELLS

MAGE SPELLS, LEVEL TWO

Cat's Grace (Alteration)

Level: 2

Range: Touch

Duration: 1 hour/level

Casting Time: 2

Area of Effect: 1 creature

Saving Throw: None

This spell magically increases a target's dexterity. The amount depends on the target's class: thieves gain 1d8 points, fighters and mages gain 1d6 points, and clerics gain 1d4 points. Cat's Grace cannot raise a target's dexterity past 20.

MAGE SPELLS, LEVEL THREE

Lance of Disruption (Invocation)

Level: 3

Range: 60 feet

Duration: Instantaneous

Casting Time: 3

Area of Effect: Special

Saving Throw: Half

This spell creates a lance of force, extending from the caster to a specified point 60 feet in the distance. Any creatures in the lance's path take 5d4 points of bludgeoning damage, +2 points of damage per level of the caster (maximum of +30). Victims can save vs. spell for half damage.

MAGE SPELLS, LEVEL FOUR

Mordenkainen's Force Missiles (Invocation)

Level: 4

Range: Sight of Caster

Duration: Instantaneous

Casting Time: 4

Area of Effect: Special

Saving Throw: Special

This spell creates a brilliant globe of magical energy that streaks forth from the caster's hand to unerringly strike its target, much like a Magic Missile spell. The wizard creates one missile at 7th level, and an additional missile at every third level after 7th - in other words, two missiles at 10th level, three at 13th, four at 16th, and so on, to a maximum of seven missiles at 25th level. Each missile inflicts 2d4 points of damage to the target and then bursts in a 5-foot radius concussive blast that inflicts 1 point of damage per level of the caster - for example, a 12th-level wizard could conjure two force missiles, each of which strikes for 2d4+12 points of damage. Creatures taking damage may attempt a saving throw vs. spell to negate the concussion damage, but the impact of the missile itself allows no saving throw. The 1st-level wizard spell Shield will absorb the force missiles harmlessly, including the concussion damage.

Shout (Invocation)

Level: 4

Range: Caster

Duration: Instantaneous

Casting Time: 1

Area of Effect: 30-foot long,

10-foot diameter cone

Saving Throw: Half

Shout grants the wizard tremendous vocal powers, allowing him to emit an ear-splitting roar from his mouth in a cone-shaped area of effect 30 feet long and 10 feet in diameter at its farthest point. Any creature within this area is deafened for 2d6 rounds and suffers 4d6 points of damage. A successful saving throw vs. spell negates the deafness and reduces the damage by half.

Vitriolic Sphere (Conjuration)

Level: 4

Range: Sight of Caster

Duration: Special

Casting Time: 4

Area of Effect: Special

Saving Throw: Special

This spell conjures a sphere of glowing emerald acid that the caster can direct to strike any target within range. When it reaches its target, the sphere explodes and drenches the victim in potent acid. The victim suffers 1d4 points of acid damage per caster level, to a maximum of 12d4 points of damage. After the initial damage, the victim must make a saving throw to avoid more damage. If unsuccessful, the victim continues to suffer acid damage in the following rounds, sustaining two less dice of damage each round. For example, an 8th-level wizard inflicts 8d4 damage with this spell on the first round, 6d4 on the second round, 4d4 on the third round, 2d4 on the fourth round, and the spell ends on the fifth round. Each round the victim is entitled to a saving throw vs. spell to avoid further damage. The vitriolic sphere also splashes acid in a 5-foot radius around the primary target. Any creatures within the splash radius must save vs. polymorph/paralyzation or suffer a splash hit that inflicts 1d4 points of damage per every five levels of the caster. Splash hits do not cause continuing damage.

MAGE SPELLS, LEVEL FIVE

Contact Other Plane (Divination)

Level: 5

Range: Caster

Duration: Instantaneous

Casting Time: 1 round

Area of Effect: Caster

Saving Throw: None

This spell allows the wizard to contact powers from other planes of existence in order to receive advice and information. The nature of the divination is oriented around knowledge of powerful foes, magic items, and spells.

Lower Resistance (Alteration)

Level: 5

Range: Sight of Caster

Duration: 2 turns

Casting Time: 5

Area of Effect: 1 creature

Saving Throw: None

Using this spell, a wizard may attempt to reduce the magic resistance of a target creature. The magic resistance of the victim works against the Lower Resistance spell itself, but at only half its normal value. There is no saving throw. If the victim does not resist the effects of this spell, his magic resistance is reduced by 30% plus 1% per experience level of the caster.

Sunfire (Invocation)

Level: 5

Range: Caster

Duration: Instantaneous

Casting Time: 3

Area of Effect: 30-foot radius

Saving Throw: Half

A sunfire is like a fireball—an explosive burst of flame, which delivers damage proportional to the level of the wizard who cast it—1d6 points of damage for each level of experience of the spellcaster (up to a maximum of 15d6). The wizard gestures with his hand and the entire area around him erupts in flames, striking all except for the caster. Creatures failing their saving throws each suffer full damage from the blast. Those who roll successful saving throws manage to dodge, fall flat, or roll aside, each receiving half damage.

MAGE SPELLS, LEVEL SIX

Darts of Bone (Necromancy)

Level: 6

Range: Caster

Duration: 5 rounds

Casting Time: 5

Area of Effect: Caster

Saving Throw: None

This spell creates nine darts that can be used by the caster and cannot be unequipped so long as the spell is in effect. The darts are +3, do 1d4 damage, and a creature struck by a dart must save vs. death or take another 2d6 damage and have its strength reduced by 3 for 5 rounds. The caster's weapon proficiency with darts (or lack thereof) has no effect on the darts' chances to hit a target.

Soul Eater (Necromancy)

Level: 6

Range: Sight of Caster

Duration: Instantaneous

Casting Time: 5

Area of Effect: 10-foot radius

Saving Throw: None

This spell deals 3d8 damage to all living creatures within a 10-foot radius. Any creatures that die as a result of this damage are obliterated and their essence is transformed into a 3 hit dice skeleton under control of the caster. Also, for each creature that dies in this manner the caster receives a +1 bonus to Strength, Dexterity, and Constitution for 1 turn. Soul Eater has no effect on undead, constructs, and elemental creatures.

Trollish Fortitude (Necromancy)

Level: 6

Casting Time: 6

Range: Caster

Area of Effect: Caster

Duration: 2 turns

Saving Throw: None

This spell imbues the caster with the resilience of a troll, allowing the caster to regenerate 5 hit points per round up to his/her maximum hit points.

MAGE SPELLS, LEVEL SEVEN

Seven Eyes (Abjuration)

Level: 7

Casting Time: 7

Range: Caster

Area of Effect: Caster

Duration: 2 turns

Saving Throw: None

This spell conjures forth seven magical orbs that float in a ring above the caster's head. Each eye has a defensive and offensive ability, though once either one is used the eye will lose its power. The powers of each eye are described below.

Eye of the Mind – this orb protects the caster against mental attacks, such as charm, emotion, and fear. The eye may be expended as the 1st-level wizard spell Charm Person.

Eye of the Sword – this eye deflects the first physical damaging attack that strikes the caster. The eye may be expended as the 1st-level wizard spell Magic Missile (5 missiles).

Eye of the Mage – this eye absorbs one manifestation of fire, electrical, cold, or acid damage. The eye can also be expended as the 3rd-level wizard spell Lightning Bolt (4d8 damage).

Eye of Venom – this eye halts any one attack or effect that could poison the caster. The eye can also be used to poison one creature, dealing 30 points of damage over a period of 30 seconds.

Eye of the Spirit – this eye blocks one instant-death magic attack (Death Spell, Finger of Death, Power Word Kill, Slay Living, Destruction). The wizard may instead choose to expend the eye's power as a Ray of Enfeeblement, dropping a target's strength to 5, reducing its chance to hit, and the damage it deals.

Eye of Fortitude – this eye blocks one stunning, deafness, blindness, or silence effect. It may alternatively be expended as the 4th-level wizard spell, Shout.

Eye of Stone – this eye shields the caster from a single petrification attack. It can also be used as the 3rd-level wizard spell, Hold Person.

LONELYWOOD

Straddling the rocky shores of Maer Dualdon and the alpine forest of Lonely Wood from which the town borrowed its name, Lonelywood has the dubious honor of being the northernmost settlement in all of Faerûn. The town lies in the shadow of Kelvin's Cairn, and the solitary mountain peak acts as a barrier that shelters both the town and forest against the harsh winds that blow down from the Reghed Glacier. Although the town is protected from the wind, the weather is hardly temperate. Snow still covers the ground year round, and at night the temperature drops below freezing.

Lonelywood is one of the youngest of the Ten-Towns. It was only in recent years that it was recognized by the council as the tenth town. Fifty years ago, there was nothing in the way of civilized settlements north of Termalaine and the area surrounding the Lonely Wood was rife with logger camps and lone trappers. With the establishment of the Whistling Gallows Inn, however, Lonelywood gained a sense of permanency, and a small town slowly grew up around the Inn.

Its isolated position in the North makes Lonelywood vulnerable to attacks from the barbarian tribes that dwell in the icy plains surrounding the Ten-Towns.

The Whistling Gallows Inn (1) is the heart of Lonelywood; in fact, it's said to be the first structure ever built in Lonelywood... it certainly has the most colorful history of all the buildings in town.

Back when the area surrounding Lonely Wood was rife with logger camps and trappers, a giant of a man, Skeld, came to Lonelywood and took up work in one of the logging camps. Half-barbarian and half-ogre, Skeld's great size and strength were welcomed and quickly put to good use. Misfortune struck, however, when Skeld nearly severed his leg in a logging accident; not only could he no longer keep pace with the other woodsmen, he could not even make the journey south in search of new work. His survival on the line, Skeld came upon the idea of building a lodge on Lake Maer Dualdon and opening it up to the loggers as a tavern. Soon, every logger in the region knew and oft frequented "Skeld's Place," as it was called back then (Skeld didn't hold much with fanciful names, and in truth, thinking them up made his head hurt).

The loggers and trappers were a rough bunch who enjoyed their liquor, and Skeld hadn't really considered the trouble that could result in selling cheap ale to anyone with a few coppers to rub together. On the very first night, Skeld was forced to lay down the law, using his sheer size and strength to keep order, and it wasn't long before he earned himself a fearful reputation for his brutality. According to stories, one of his favorite methods of keeping patrons in line was to hang particularly rowdy miscreants from the dead tree that stood out front of the tavern and let the frozen bodies swing from the tree until the scavengers picked them clean. It was an effective warning... so much so that late at night, when the tavern had fallen silent, the whistling of the wind could be heard as it blew through the bodies dangling from the tree outside.

Eventually, Skeld was stabbed to death in a bar brawl and the ownership of the tavern changed hands. The new proprietor, Murdaugh (a bard of some repute and possessing a flair for names that Skeld never did), changed the name of the tavern to the Whistling Gallows. Murdaugh ran the inn for many years (into the ground, it's said), until it was purchased by a traveling merchant, Kieran Nye. Kieran is reported to be a kind enough sort, though he tends to use too many big words and sweeping gestures to convey a point. Murdaugh still frequents the place and even gives performances on occasion.

Aside from the Whistling Gallows, there are a number of other businesses in town. The simple cabin on the southeast side of town is home of the Bowyer (2), Lonelywood's local ranger, Emmerich Hawksinger. A skilled woodworker, Emmerich makes his living by making and selling bows carved from the local fir trees to merchants and the local townsfolk.

The two-storied home of the Cartwright (3) is second in size only to the Whistling Gallows Inn and is the home of Baldemar Thurlow. Baldemar has done exceptionally well for himself since coming to Lonelywood; his success comes from his contracts with the trading costers (trade families) of the Ten-Towns to construct caravan wagons, which keeps him busy and his coffers full. His wealth and eye for business has done more than make him rich, however; it has also won him a seat on the council of the Ten-Towns, and he has served as Lonelywood's representative for many years.

Near the shore of the lake, one can find a Boathouse (4), the home and workplace (often the same in Lonelywood) of an aging boat builder, Thom Farold, and his son Ned. Several small boats of various styles and constructions litter the yard; none too large, mostly canoe size, although word has it that the boat builder is working on a much larger vessel. Thom's son is said to be available to carry fishermen out onto Maer Dauldon for the price of a few coppers.

On the northwestern edge of town is a Trapper's Cabin (5), a rough shack that serves as the home of three crude brothers. The three are drifters who came into town a few months back and have decided to stay, much to the irritation of the other townsfolk. They have taken little care in their cabin's upkeep, and the sagging structure looks as if it is about to collapse at any moment.

Surprisingly enough, Lonelywood also boasts a Shrine of Waukeen (6). This small house of worship is dedicated to the Goddess of trade, money, and wealth, and it is quite a change from a standard Waukeen temple (such structures are usually more akin to castles bedecked with jewels). Even odder, it is said that this temple was established by a halfling priest, a missionary from Amn who has taken up residence here.

The mid-sized structure on the northeast part of town is both the workshop and home of Tybald Dunn, the town Cooper (7). It is not hard to miss; outside the house are finished and unfinished barrels, wooden planks, iron bands, and so on.

The last (and smallest) building in town is the shack of Purvis, the local Gravedigger (8). Not much is known about him, nor are any willing to get close enough to find out, as Purvis is said to be coated so thickly in dirt and grime that it is not known if he even wears clothes beneath the filth.

Note: The ranger and paladin spell progression table has changed from the table in the original Icewind Dale manual. In the expansion, rangers and paladins get spells much earlier.

Omission of “Casting Level”: In the original Icewind Dale, there was an additional column labeled “Casting Level,” which represented what level the paladin or ranger was considered to be when casting the spell. This was incorrect—the spell always uses the level of the caster, regardless of whether they are a wizard, priest, paladin, or ranger. If a 6th-level paladin casts a 1st-level priest spell, the spell is treated as if it was cast by a 6th-level priest.
